Arthur Irwin Reported Alive

SHACED BERGDOLL
SHOOT KIDNAPERS

REPORT ART IRWIN
ALIVE IN FLORIDA

Arthur Irwin, former manager of Newport, New England, and last year's League ball club, dead for two years, is reported alive.
This is the basis of a story that is being the result of the team. It is said that the old-time ballplayer and manager is today managing a ball club in the South.
Irwin was supposed to have been dumped off a steamer in Long Island about a couple of seasons ago. He took passage on the boat going from New York to Boston. Next day, he could not be found. It was supposed he had committed suicide.
This theory was strengthened
when it was discovered that Irwin had been leading a double life for years.

MARY MILES MINTER
SUES HER MOTHER

Los Angeles, Aug. 11.—The movie actress is thrilled by developments today in the Mary Miles Minter case.
Following a statement by Miss Minter in which she admitted
she had no love for her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, who is charged with withholding a million dollars of Mary's earnings from her, a map was circulated to the effect that Mary was not really the child of Mrs.
Shelby.
The report has it that Mrs. Shelby was at one time known as Mrs.

JEWELER SHOOT BANDIT;
FOILS NEW YORK HOLDUP

New York, Aug. 11.—Three robbers today entered the jewelry shop of Rudolph J. Fiske and Co., hold-up the cashier, C. Fiske, at pistol point, and fled when he drew a pistol beneath a workbench and fired two shots at them. They fled a hundred of shots as they ran.
Fiske, whose clothing was riddled
by bullets that grazed his chest, saw one of his shots took effect and that two of the robbers had to lift
the third into a waiting motor car.

11 KILLED IN GERMAN CLASH
OF WORKERS AND FARMERS

Berlin, Aug. 11. (A.P.)—Eleven persons were killed and many others wounded today in a clash between striking workmen and peasants at Alz-Chapelle, according to a report reaching Berlin this afternoon.

SAM RICHARDS QUILTS
ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

Dover, England, Aug. 11. (A.P.)— Another attempt to conquer the English Channel was begun at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, when two Americans, Charles Tott and Sam
Richards of Boston and Homer Mc-Gill of Argentina entered the water and started for the French shore.
At 4:25 P. M. Tott abandoned his attempt because of a severe stomach problem.
Richards also abandoned the swim because his eyes had become affected by the sea water.
Tott is still afloat strong at this time, and was more than ten miles out.
Homer Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass., who if it were not for the storm would have been the challenger in the swim, and his pilot, Capt. J. Joe Smith, is acting as pilot
for the swim.

Notorious American Draft Evader Escapes Plot to Catch Him at Baden

Eberbach, Baden, Aug. 11
(A.P.)—Grover Cleveland
Bergdoll, the American draft evader, shot down and killed one man and wounded another when men concealed in his hotel apartment seized him in a kidnapping attempt.
Two other men waiting outside in an old American army automobile with an American shield on the side were arrested
after being menaced by a crowd.
Both of Bergdoll's assailants were identified as Frenchmen, in the service of the Americans.

AND STORE OF THREATS

Two safes were cracked at No. 125
Trenton street. The thieves got $100 in cash from a jewelry store on the street floor, after a collection of valuable jewelry from a safe in the office of Mary C.
Clarke, hair specialist on an upper floor. They stole a diamond ring and other property from the office of Henry Chubbard and carried off a collection of valuable jewelry from the office of W. A. Moffitt.
The "breaks" were discovered at 8:30 this morning. The night watchman went off duty at midnight. The police say the burglars forced an entrance between that hour and between dawn and dawn. The building is between Market street and Hamlin street, opposite Boston Common.
The burglars are thought to have used an unmovable to their entrance. They left a half-dozen offending statements.

GLAD AT ARREST.

As a matter of fact, Bergdoll was in a great deal of trouble at the time he fled from the country, and on several occasions narrowly escaped being captured.
Under investigation, Bergdoll was found to be a man of considerable means, and was a member of the Boston Athletic Association.

COOLIDGE WILL MEET CABINET ON TUESDAY

Washington, Aug. 11 (U.S.).—President Calvin Coolidge will summon the Harding Cabinet next Tuesday to its first session since the new administration. It was formed on Thursday last.

The President will probably issue call for Cabinet meeting during the day.

Washington, Aug. 11 (U.S.).—President Coolidge returned to the capital today in plunge directly into a series of political and executive business.

The presidential train which brought the chief executive back from attendance at the Marine funeral of the late President Harding reached Washington at 7:15 A. M., after a record run from the Ocean View Hotel.

The President arose early today, eager to "get back to work."

While the presidential special was being formed, Mr. Coolidge and new executive cabinet members were being introduced to the staff of the White House.

NASH

Announces New Models

FOURS and SIXES

These new Nash conceptions in open and enclosed car types are now placed on display with a quiet surety that they will exceed the expectations even of those who look for Nash to lead the way and who consequently set their hopes highest.

With traditional progressiveness Nash has developed a number of bodies and other outstanding improvements whose artistry and execution is as certain to command the professional concern of coachwork craftsmen and engineers as the admiration of the public at large.

With no justification in the way of increased manufacturing costs for a price advance Nash stands firm on current prices so that the important and expensive new car advancements relating both to engineering and equipment in reality constitute a price reduction.

COHAN DOES MASTERFUL MAGIC
AND PUTS SLUMS INTO SOCIETY.

THOMAS CAULEY, doorkeeper at the Majestic Theatre, has been rewarded for faithful service, but he had to go to prison to get his reward. For eleven weeks Cauley had stood at his post, handing tickets from patrons of "The Covered Wagon." He could hear the strains of music as the big orchestra played its accompaniment to the chamber scenes as the great wagon trains on the screen rolled across the landscape. He could see the picture, the scene was at his front gate and like a good soldier, he kept his eyes straight ahead. His job, he held close to his guardianship. But he did want to see the picture. That he read in the newspapers that "The Covered Wagon" was to be produced by the Majestic Theatre, he knew. And he wanted to be a strictly private affair. Through the intervention of Manager Fred Meek the prison warden broke one of the prison rules—that the prisoners were not to be allowed to leave their quarters—and Cauley saw "The Covered Wagon," but he had to go jail.

ALL'S WELL NOW

Master Jackie Sheldon, the youthful son of General Manager Arthur J. Sheldon of the Statler theatres in Boston, went down to the General Hospital last Wednesday night, as he is supposed, "in bad luck."

He returned home from his visit about same afternoon without any ailments and fensile. It was not until later in the evening that he admitted to his parents that he liked the "bad luck" after all.

MISS MARGARET BLACK WINS MOST CHARMING GIRL CONTEST

SELECTED FROM 500 GIRLS

Dorchester Secretary to Enjoy Pageant Week Program at Atlantic City

The quest for the MOST CHARMING girl in Greater Boston is ended. She is twenty-one-year-old Miss Margaret L. Black, secretary for the American Trust Company, No. 50 State street. She lives with her widowed mother, Mrs. Sarah Black, at No. 107 Woodrow avenue, Dorchester.

The choice of the judges was an excellent one and when she competes against girls from 69 cities in the Atlantic City pageant for the national beauty title of "Miss America," they will not be disappointed in the result, her friends believe.

Miss Black won the title of "Miss Boston," "Queen of the Hub," in competition with more than 500 young women ranging from 14 to 30 years of age. Her reward will be a free trip to Atlantic City during pageant week with all expenses of self and chaperon paid by this newspaper. Miss Black has never been to America's great watering place and is overjoyed at the prospect of going. She has chosen her widowed mother, whom she helps support, as her companion for the trip.

DISTINCT INDIVIDUALITY

The winner of this great tournament is a distinct brunette with grey blue eyes. The coloring of her cheeks is like that of a newly opened rose. She is tall and has a well proportioned, youthful figure. She weighs 125 pounds, she is unsuited, having grace and dignity often lacking in young women. There is no conceit in her makeup. Her smile is irresistible. When she smiles she discloses unusually beautiful teeth.

An interesting feature of Miss Black's victory was the manner in which she entered the tournament. Someone suggested that she enter a snapshot recently taken at Nantasket Beach. She did so, and even when she was chosen as one of the twenty-five from whom the winner would be picked she was uncertain whether to appear before the judges. Changing her mind, she did so, and when she returned to her place of employment, a number of her fellow workers gave her a reception.

A CLOSE SECOND

Seventeen-year-old Doris Rowden George of No. 34 Linnaea street, Cambridge, won second place. She is a pupil at Mt. Ida School and a talented musician. Like Miss Black, she, too, is a brunette. The judges had a difficult time determining which of the two girls should take first place, but the choice finally fell on the Dorchester girl.

Another interesting feature of the final selection was that Miss George and her 16-year-old sister Phyllis, a pupil at Cambridge Latin School, competed against each other for first place, both being among the twenty-five in person before the judges at the Goro Studio, No. 739 Boylston street.

The judges were John H. Goro, distinguished photographer and painter, Frederick Wallace, well known portrait painter and instructor in Massachusetts Normal Art School, Frank R. Frazer, editor of "American Photography," and Arthur E. Hawkins, a patron of art. The last named replaced Wilbur Dean Hamilton, head of the department of drawing and photography of Massachusetts Normal Art School, who was called unexpectedly to Philadelphia.

PICKED FROM 25

Each of the twenty-five girls whose photographs had been chosen in the preliminary selection was called separately before the judges. Their grace, in walking into the room, was carefully observed, as were their movements as they turned about on a small platform in front of a cleverly arranged background.

The choice quickly divided to five girls, Miss Black, Miss Doris George, Miss Ora C. Davis of No. 18 Pearl street, Cambridge; Miss Doris Colbourne of No. 30 Terrace avenue, Winthrop, and Miss Harriet Krauth of No. 18 Warner street, West Somerville. This group contained three brunettes and two blondes. The blondes were Miss Davis and Miss Krauth. Miss Davis is of the Mary Pickford type.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE

After carefully observing the contestants and talking with several minutes the judges selected Miss Black. Miss Black and Miss George were the best of pairs throughout the contest and agreed that it was unfortunate that could not be winners. Miss Black will go to Atlantic City the first week in September and will take part in all the feature events of the annual Fall pageant.

However, what also has to say about her victory.

QUITE BY ACCIDENT

"It was quite by accident that I entered the American's Charming Girl tournament. Someone suggested that I enter a snapshot recently taken at Nantasket Beach. I did so, and even when she was chosen as one of the twenty-five from whom the winner would be picked she was uncertain whether to appear before the judges. Changing her mind, she did so, and when she returned to her place of employment, a number of her fellow workers gave her a reception."

many interesting men and women. "I have always considered natural grace and dignity essential to charm in a woman. The girl who KNOWS she is charming seldom is to other people. The more fact that a woman KNOWS she is charming spoils the charm that she might otherwise have. I have always tried to act naturally wherever I have been. I do not affectation in either man or woman."

"I do not object to a girl using a small amount of rouge if it helps her appearance and she applies it judiciously. The use of too much, however, is vulgar and cheapens a girl in the eyes of men."

Shaw Estate at Newport Scene of Much Activity, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

"GULL ROCKS," the Robert Gould Shaw estate at Newport, has hummed steadily throughout the summer with its usual social activities augmented by the visit of several overseas friends of the Shaws. Among those in James N. Lowry of Cambridge, England, boyhood chum of Gould Shaw and the centre of current attention.

The Robert Gould Shaws, 24, are among the first to take refuge at the beautiful Rhode Island resort when the warm days of June begin to foretell the discomfort of summer in town. The Shaws have also a large country home in Newton Centre, known as "Oak Hill."

In addition to Mrs. John Chipman Gray's party in the Lorton cottage at Magnolia is Mrs. Florence Gray of the Fenway.

MONTERRAT GOLF CLUB

will hold its annual tournament the third week of the month, commencing Tuesday, August 14, and continuing throughout the week. There will be men's and ladies' handicap singles and scratch mixed doubles (partners to be drawn). All three events are open to members of the club and their guests. An open afternoon tea will be served on Thursday.

The Montserrat tournament is among the notable outdoor events of the season and the present year's assembly of high-grade players promises unusual interest in this series.

Aldermen Demand Shakeup
of Police to Stop Youth

Intoxication

The appearance of fifteen-year-old boys and girls rolling intoxicated about the streets of the Brookbottom section of Somerville has led to the Aldermen of the Board of Aldermen for an immediate change in the personnel of the Liquor squad.

The investigation which disclosed the reported widespread drunkenness among children came about as result of the death of two men from drinks in poison liquor in that section of the city.

Playing Sergeant James M. Lynch for inefficiency Alderman Robert C. Harris presented an order to the board which demanded that Mayor John M.

Robert C. Harris, "Conditions in Somerville are deplorable," the adman said. "Why, they are so terrible I have noticed young girls in short dresses stumbling down the streets dead drunk in one section."

The adman then described how he lived gone to Brookline, which is near the East Cambridge line and where he lives in a nice apartment, and there saw evidence everywhere of moonshine being sold openly and cheaply, owing to the keen competition between the bootleggers.

"These liquor sellers are absolutely unscrupulous," he went on. "They will sell to any one who has the price, regardless whether they are young and old, and they will peddle their wares as long as the buyer's money lasts."

Abraham Joseph A. Hiney corroborated Harris' charges. He said: "I have seen a number of boys and girls scarcely fifteen and perhaps sixteen years of age, loitering the streets there as drunk as lords."

"I am told by reliable persons that the temptation and drive for business there is so swift that the bootleggers are found in store doors and on the sidewalks."

There have been 256 men arrested here in this year in Somerville for intoxication, whereas for the entire year of 1920 the total was 240.

4 MOS. EACH FOR HITTING GIRLS

For striking two waitresses in the Farragut Inn, No. 356 East Sixth

Police said the pair entered the restaurant, began throwing cups and then struck the girl employees who interfered. They were up on charges of assault and battery and breaking the door, drawing two months on each.

M. Curley witnessed the funeral services of President Harding, in the Capitol rotunda, on the card of the Papal delegate.

The mayor receives only two tickets, one for Mrs. Curley and one for himself. He told the official in charge he would like another one for Dorothy and the reason of the Papal delegate, who apparently had not called for it, was placed in his hands.

THIS is the anniversary of the death, in 1890, of Cardinal Newman, the English prelate, whose writings and sermons before and after he became a Catholic won him the admiration and respect of his countrymen.

ing my roll of bills in front of me on the desk.

"You say you got 'em? Now, how did a pretty young woman like you get 'em?"

"I got 'em in cash," demanded the old man.

"How much do you think you were getting me an impossible task?" I asked sharply.

"I don't know," telling me I should begin when asked with your "I don't know." I told him I had a roll of take fifty thousand dollars in cash, or no deal, and he said, "I'll take it. I shall be right here, and expect you to hold it in yours." You've got the money, now, and you've got the option to know the terms."

I N the Royal Museum at Madrid is an magnificent portrait of Charles V, Emperor of Spain, which is held by many to be the finest oil ever painted.

The celebrated work of art is Charles the Fifth, Emperor of the Spanish World, by Titian, Ferdinand and Isabella.

It was during the reign of Charles that the Spaniards conquered Mexico and Peru. And it was his policy to keep what is now Germany and Denmark united under the leadership of the Smalkilde League at Mühl-

Born a lady of much culture and familiar with the ways of the world—and it was a hard world—she had been brought up in the court of the archduke, with all the grace and courtesy of which she was imbued, even though her father's rank was low. Though they were honored guests, they were not really accepted as equals; so that when a messenger burst into the room, shouting that the Spanish ambassador had arrived, she knew the town and trading the people shamelessly.

"The countesses flushed with indignation, but did not indicate distress by the slightest word or

After this great victory, while the king's troops were marching through the town, the king stopped in Helwatsburg, which was ruled by a good and wise woman, the Countess Catharina of Helwatsburg.

So anxious was she that her little duchy and its inhabitants should not be troubled and suffer from the invaders that she sent to the great Emperor her request that he should ♦ Secretly and with dispatch she armed all his soldiers and ordered every entrance to the castle barred.

Then she returned to the dining-hall and begged the officers to issue commands that the outrageous soldiers, being prevented from the town, cease at once.

But they were drinking and eating and they merely laughed at

In return for this—the Romanovs granted her request—she agreed to furnish his army with provisions at very low prices.

Princess Irieny of Romanov was the general in charge of the troops of Charles. Seeing the beautiful castle, he unceremoniously seized himself and his staff to breakfast.

trifle.

Without further delay, he issued swift orders that all marauding bandits should stop at once, and that the citizens should be treated with every consideration.

To this day, the Countess Catharina of Schwartzburg, who so cleverly tricked a great general into submission, is known as "Catharina the Heroic."

GIRLS are funny things—so say poets. They cling to memories and the things that help them to remember. Boys—I think—like better to forget. They do not young men who have a clinging of the femininity that softens and makes tender many men—save the little things that mean so many sentimental adventures in their lives.

Letters? Most men burn the pale blue or gray envelopes that the girls write in and use the words were they to be forced to forget. It is seldom found dry and brittle and smelling strangely sweet like a dusty box, speaking strongly of ardent Summer nights and long-gone romances, in the drawers where they are forced to be. A little white handkerchief, a little blue ribbon with a lock of stolen hair that curls like a live thing round a chap's finger knotted in it, a little blue card that says "I do not know" or "I love you" where it is torn to pieces—so girls say?

But girls treasure and brand the symbols of sentiment. Girls do

BE SURE TOOTH-BRUSH IS CLEAN

Dr. Charles A. L. Reed, M.D.,
Former President
Medical Association.

DR. MADAME RAMBOLDT.
The most famous of French
dentists of the 19th century,
Dr. Ramboldt, kept a particularly fine piece of toothbrush, a razor,
and a hairbrush, all
without washing
for a long time
to cleanse his perfect teeth.

Was this critical? Dr. Reed.
I am ashamed to be called by my brethren the
"toothbrush man."
Today the carriage over of the rich from one spring of the toothbrush to another is wiping dignities.

The habit of washing the teeth with a brush is revealed by the existence of the other halves of the toothbrush.

Yet to what extent have we actually advanced since then? How do we better observe the law of nature?

We have the tooth brush.
It was introduced to us in 1580.
25 years after that in 1605,000 people every year. This means that in 1605,000 people used a toothbrush a year, there was 7,850,000
who did not use a toothbrush at all.

This does not necessarily mean that there are many people who do not use a toothbrush. Many very intelligent people, for very many reasons, do not use a toothbrush to accomplish the same purpose." you ask.

Here are some facts.
The toothbrush is used to clean the teeth, to remove the dirt, to remove the drunk or food. They may be removed or they will produce the same result. The toothbrush is used to remove the mucus. If you remove the mucus from the teeth, you will remove them, or some of them, from the brush and gums to the mouth.
You can brush the teeth with them all away.

The brush cannot be destroyed without boiling, or by the action of equal destructive chemical agents. You can use the same time you use the brush you carry the very same brush back into the mouth.

If the bristles are short and the brush is used to clean the teeth, the brush will be used through these little scratches or wounds you simply wash
the teeth with the brush.
If you are using the brush you are trying to get rid of. In the toothbrush you establish and perpetuate the same condition of the teeth known as oral infection.

The best way to manage these conditions is to get several brushes, and use them in rotation, returning them thoroughly with soap
water, and fill the moist bristles with pure salt. They up all the dirt and mucus from the

the toothbrush is a very good
"very good" tooth powder, or you can use any reliable toothbrush.

As soon as you have used a brush wash it thoroughly, remove
the dirt and mucus from the brush, and use it again in the
